PETITION FOR WRIT OF CERTIORARI TO THE OAKLAND COUNTY CIRCUIT COURT OF THE STATE OF MICHIGAN

To the Chief "Justice" and Associate "Justices" of the Supreme Court of the United States

Petitioner demands (knowing his demand will be denied) that a writ of certiorari issue to review "orders" of the Oakland County Circuit Court, the right to appeal which "orders" has been denied by the Court of Appeals of Michigan and leave to appeal which "orders" has been denied by the Supreme Court of Michigan.

ORDERS BELOW

The "orders" in the courts below are:

U Order of the Trial Court (Oakland County Circuit Court, Sixth Judicial Circuit of Michigan, "Judge" James S. Thorburn) remunerating receiver. Dated October 7, 1970 (p. 9).

V Order of the Trial Court allowing intervention. Dated February 17, 1971 (p. 10).

W Order of the Trial Court requiring disbursement. Dated February 17, 1971 (p. 12).

X Order of the Court of Appeals dismissing appeal of the Trial Court's order of October 7, 1970. Dated May 5, 1971 (p. 14).

Y Order of the Court of Appeals dismissing the Trial Court's orders of February 17, 1971. Dated May 5, 1971 (p. 15).

Z Order of the Court of Appeals awarding costs. Dated May 28, 1971 (p. 16).

AA Order of the Michigan Supreme Court denying leave to appeal the Court of Appeals' orders of May 5 and May 28, 1971. Dated December 14, 1971 (p. 17).

BB Order of the Michigan Supreme Court denying leave to appeal the Court of Appeals' order of May 5, 1971. Dated December 16, 1971 (p. 18).

CC Order of the Michigan Supreme Court denying rehearing of its order of December 16, 1971. Dated January 13, 1972 (p. 19).

DD Order of the Michigan Supreme Court denying rehearing of its order of December 14, 1971. Dated January 13, 1972 (p. 20).

Copies of these "orders" are attached in the appendix and identified with matching letters.

JURISDICTION

The orders of the Michigan Supreme Court denying rehearing of its orders of (a) December 14, 1971, denying leave to appeal the Michigan Court of Appeals' orders of (1) May 5, 1971, dismissing petitioner's appeal of the Trial Court's order of October 7, 1970, remunerating receiver and (2) May 28, 1971, awarding costs and (b) December 16, 1971, denying leave to appeal the Michigan Court of Appeals' order of May 5, 1971, dismissing petitioner's appeal of the Trial Court's orders of February 17, 1971, allowing intervention and requiring disbursement are dated January 13, 1972.

28 U.S.C. Sec. 1257(3) is believed to confer jurisdiction on this Court to review the "orders" in question by writ of certiorari. The United States Constitution, Amendment XIV, Sec.1 confers a duty on this Court to declare the "orders" to be invalid.

QUESTIONS PRESENTED FOR REVIEW

Please see Petition for Writ of Certiorari in case number 70-289, page 3.

6. Does a court afford a defendant due process of law where it lacks jurisdiction of the case or fails to provide the defendant the prescribed notice or denies the defendant an opportunity to be heard?

CONSTITUTIONAL AND STATUTORY PROVISIONS INVOLVED

Please see Petition for Writ of Certiorari in case number 70-289, page 4.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Please see Petition for Writ of Certiorari in case number 70-289, page 5, and Brief in Reply to Brief in Opposition to Petition for Writ of Certiorari, page 10.

The Trial Court's order allowing intervention (Appendix V, p. 10) like its order of disbursement (Appendix W, p. 12) was entered without any of the three essential elements of due process—jurisdiction, notice, and opportunity to be heard. With regard to the order remunerating receiver (Appendix U, p. 9), there was jurisdiction and notice but no opportunity to be heard. The trial judge refused even to listen to petitioner's arguments.

MANNER OF RAISING FEDERAL QUESTIONS SOUGHT TO BE REVIEWED

Please see petition for Writ of Certiorari in case number 70-289, page 6. Petitioner asks that the writ of certiorari be addressed to the trial court; there is no right of appeal in Michigan regardless of what the statutes[1] or the court

[1] R.J.A. SEC. 308. Jurisdiction. The court of appeals has jurisdiction on appeals from:

(1) All final judgments from the circuit courts, court of claims, and recorder's court, except judgments on ordinance violations in the traffic and ordinance division of recorder's court. Appeals from final judgments from all other courts and from convictions for ordinance violations in the traffic and ordinance divisions of recorder's court shall be taken to the circuit courts, upon which further review may be had only upon application for leave to appeal granted by the court of appeals.

(2) Such other judgments or interlocutory orders as the supreme court may be rule determine.

R.J.A. SEC. 309. Appeals by right and by leave. All appeals to the court of appeals from final judgments or decisions permitted by this act shall be a matter of right. All other appeals from other judgments or orders to the court of appeals permitted by statute or supreme court rule shall be by right or by leave as provided by the statute or the rules promulgated by the supreme court.

rules[2] may provide. If the Court of Appeals does not want to hear an appeal of a final judgment or order, it simply declares that the final judgment or order is not a final judgment or order at all, and it affords the appellant no opportunity to demonstrate that the final judgment or order is a final judgment or order.

It is hoped that the reader (if any there be) will appreciate the humor in the Court of Appeals' order (Appendix Y, p. 15) dismissing appeals of the trial court's orders allowing intervention and requiring disbursement. (Appendices V and W, p. 10 and p. 12). Without benefit of any motion—without hearing any argument or receiving any evidence, the Court of Appeals found that the orders appealed from were "post-judgment orders", but it never identified the final judgment. Had petitioner been granted an opportunity, he would have demonstrated that the orders appealed from were the first orders entered in the case involving the National Bank of Detroit—he would have pointed out to the Court of Appeals that no previous judgment could have adjudicated the contractual rights and obligations of the National Bank of Detroit because that bank was never a party to the litigation prior to the entry of the orders appealed from. However, as usual, petitioner was afforded no opportunity to be heard. The "judges" of the Court of Appeals refused to hear anything that might have interfered with the bribes they received from Mr. Barris.

Appeals by Right and by Leave.

.1 Appeal as of Right. In all criminal and civil matters, an aggrieved party shall have a right to appeal from all final judgments or final orders from the Circuit Courts, Court of Claims and Recorder's Court, except judgments or ordinance violations in the Traffic and Ordinance Division of Recorder's Court. Appeals from final judgments from all other courts and from convictions for ordinance violations in the Traffic and Ordinance Division of the Recorder's Court shall be taken to the Circuit Courts, upon which further review may be had only upon application for leave to appeal granted by the Court of Appeals. Final judgments or interlocutory orders of courts which by law are appealable to the Circuit Court only upon leave or on appeal are to be tried de novo in the Circuit Court shall continue to be tried in the Circuit Court. See subrule 701.1 Appeals from final or interlocutory judgments of the District Court, Common Pleas Court, or judgments in ordinance cases in the Traffic and Ordinance Division of Recorder's Court shall be taken to the Circuit Court in which such court is located. Appeals as of right shall be taken in accordance with and within the time prescribed by these rules.

No less humorous than the order of dismissal just discussed is the Court of Appeals' order (Appendix X, p. 14) dismissing the appeal of the trial court's order remunerating receiver (Appendix U, p. 9). In this case a motion to dismiss was filed by Mr. Michael W. Hutson, attorney for the receiver (another attorney), but no reason was given for the alleged lack of jurisdiction. It was never even suggested that the order appealed from was not a final order.

ARGUMENT

Please see Petition for Writ of Certiorari in case number 70-289, page 8, and Brief in Reply to Brief in Opposition to Petition for Writ of Certiorari, page 10. As in that petition the orders sought to be reviewed (Appendices U, V, and W, p. 9, p. 10, and p. 12) are invalid for lack of due process of law.

When the "justices" of this court refused to discharge their duty in connection with the previous petition, petitioner learned the extent of Mr. Barris' bribery. It was not necessary for Mr. Barris to have any personal contact with the "justices" of this Court; the American Bar Association took care of everything. Petitioner has to laugh at the words of "Justice" Lewis F. Powell, Jr.

hypocritically written in 1964 while he was President of the American Bar Association:

> "... One of the distinguishing characteristics of a learned profession is a code of conduct which sets it apart from ordinary callings. This is especially true of the legal profession which must conform to the highest ethical and moral standards. ...
> The Association is also concerned with more effective enforcement of the Canons. There is a feeling that grievance committees and the courts tend to be unduly lenient in grievance cases. While no one wants punitive action, it must be remembered that the legal profession has the privilege of disciplining itself—to a greater extent than any other profession or calling. This imposes a higher responsibility and one which the Bar must discharge with greater fidelity. ..."

"Justice" Powell must have known at that time what the American Bar Association really was—a corrupt labor union for attorneys and a national clearinghouse for bribes from attorneys to judges.

RELIEF

Petitioner demands what the United States Constitution guarantees him:

1. A declaration of invalidity of the orders and judgment review of which is sought in this petition and in the previous petition, and

2. The return to petitioner of the bribes paid by Mr. Ivan E. Barris to "justices" of this Court with petitioner's funds.

Petitioner challenges this Court to order him to show cause why he should not be held in contempt for his accusations.

PETITION FOR REHEARING OF ORDER DENYING PETITION FOR WRIT OF CERTIORARI

To the Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States of America who favored denying Petition for Writ of Certiorari

Petitioner demands that a writ of certiorari issue to review orders of the Oakland County Circuit Court of the State of Michigan, writ of certiorari to review which orders was denied by this Court on April 24, 1972.

CERTIFICATE OF PETITIONER

Petitioner certifies upon pain of perjury that this petition for rehearing is presented in good faith and not for delay. Petitioner also certifies that the grounds for rehearing are confined to intervening circumstances of substantial and controlling effect if this Court's denial of his petition for writ of certiorari is such a circumstance. If not, petitioner certifies that the grounds for rehearing although not previously presented are substantial.

Jack Rose

GROUNDS FOR REHEARING

Once upon a time petitioner was deprived of his liberty by the State of Michigan without due process of law; he had never even set eyes on the "judges" who ordered his arrest. Petitioner applied to the Federal District Court in Detroit to avoid imprisonment. But that Court insisted that it had no jurisdiction to enforce rights granted under the "due process" clause of the fourteenth amendment to the United States Constitution. After serving two and a half months in the Oakland County jail, petitioner asked his attorney how a person secures enforcement of his constitutional rights. The attorney advised petitioner of the procedure—a petition to the United States Supreme Court for writ of certiorari after state remedies were exhausted. Petitioner suggested that this could not be the correct procedure, because the granting of a writ of certiorari is discretionary while constitutional guarantees are matters of right. The attorney told petitioner not to complain of a discretionary denial of a writ of certiorari until it was in fact denied. Well, petitioner's writ has now been denied and petitioner does complain—he complains bitterly of the hypocrites on this bench who flout the United States Constitution after solemnly promising to support it.

RELIEF

Petitioner demands his constitutional rights.
